THE CURRAGH.

INTERESTING RACING.

CROWDENNIS WINS

DROGHEDA MEMORIAL.

The attendance at the Curragh for the first day of the July Meeting was naturally much below the average, and the wonder is that in such troubled times so many people patronised the meeting. As far as Dublin people were concerned, there were no difficulties in the way of reaching the venue, but some of the Southern and Western towns are completely cut off, and there were reports that some particularly keen Southern sportsmen actually travelled to England from the South and thence to Dublin in order to attend the meeting. It was a fine, bright afternoon, and the racing, while not of a very exceptional character, was interesting.

The Scurry Plate, as usual, set a big problem for backers, and six of the fourteen runners found substantial support. Favouritism ultimately rested with Mimi Eagle, while the stable companions, Travelling Head Lady and Bachelor's Sketch, were both well supported. It is not often one sees two horses from the same stable fighting out the finish of a race, but in this case Travelling Head Lady and Bachelor's Sketch had the issue between them for the last half furlong. Both had got the measure of Mimi Eagle at this stage, and comfortably. Tremola, who was carrying the big impost of 10st., did well to run on into fourth place, and another that showed prominently for a long way was Wild Captive.

The field for the Marble Hill Stakes did not include any two-year-old of note—in fact, they were a very moderate lot of runners for a valuable race of this description. Bonnie Doon, whose owner had considerable difficulties to overcome in order to get to the meeting to see the colt run, was a pronounced favourite, and well, though he ran, he failed to stay on as well as either Ornia or Pottinger. The former of this pair took command about a furlong from home, and, drawing away at every stride from this onwards, scored in a canter. Fate's Gift proved a false favourite for the Pollardstown Plate, for at no part of the race did he look like justifying his position in the market. Carthage, despite his big impost of 10st., was prominent as they came into the straight, but the weight soon told on him, and Superstition, getting the measure of Ireland Green's half-way up the straight, quickly settled the issue.

The Drogheda Memorial Stakes, the chief race of the day, attracted a field of seven runners, or two more than on the occasion of Tut Tut's memorable victory over Soldennis last year. Crowdennis, who, by his manner of winning the Flat Rath Stakes at the July Meeting, had come considerably enhanced his reputation, was made favourite, and, running out his race in the same fashion as at the last meeting, he led all the way and won in comfortable style from Martina, to whom he was conceding 2st. 2lb.

Odds were laid on Stormont to win the July Plate, and these Major Dixon's colt readily purchased by Mr. F. Behan for 180 sovs., while Bathos, another runner in the race, was disposed of for 177 guineas to Mr. P. M'Farland. Though there were only seven runners for the Apprentices' Plate, the race was by no means the least interesting of the finish, but for most of the way Solman's Song and Summer Grass were running in close company, and it was only by a head that the former gained the verdict. TO-DAY'S SELECTIONS.

The second day's card includes the Irish Oaks, a race now of the value of 2,500 guineas, and for this there will be a field of some eight or nine runners. Elunyd, who has been sent over from Lines's stable, is the only cross-Channel aspirant for the rich prize, and her form is not such as to suggest that the best of the Irish fillies will not hold their own against her. The following are the probable starters and jockeys:—

RACHEL, 4, (—— by Roi Herode—Sacrifice (Captain Moore). 9-7 (P. Behan) ..... —
LADY VIOLETTE (c. f., by ——Rosendale—Vivette (Mr. A. Le Roch), 9-7 (S. Jeffery)
PEARL ASH, ch. f., by White Eagle—Mimic (Mr. D. W. Barnett), 9-0 (W. Bankin) ..... M. Beary.

LEICESTER.

SMALL FIELDS.

DONNA INEZ WINS OAKS.

Though the morning outlook was extremely threatening, the Leicester Meeting was concluded in bright, warm weather, and the attendance was again a very satisfactory one. Except in two instances, the fields were small, and there were only three competitors for the most valuable event, the Leicestershire Oaks. The Manton trainer, Taylor, though he had a numerous entry to select from, was not represented, with the results that substantial odds were laid on the Clarehaven filly, Mysia, who finished third to Pogrom for the Oaks. Nevertheless, she was fairly and squarely beaten by Lady Penrhyn's Donna Inez, who led from start to finish, and easily resisted Mysia's effort, which was made below the distance. She, by the way, was the outsider of the three, in spite of being ridden by Donoghue.

Of the quartette contesting the Sutton Selling Plate, with which the card opened, odds were always laid on Lady Shimmer, and, resisting the challenge of Glen Eagle from the distance, she won comfortably, and was then bought in for 200 guineas. The Appleby Plate went to Ironore, she first real turning up for the bookmakers on the two days. The winner evidently liked the going, and at the subsequent auction was retained for 300 guineas.

Double Court gave further proof of his usefulness in this company, where he made all the running and won the Evington Handicap in clever fashion from King Throstle, and although he was favourite backers got a nice price about him.

The Winstow Hall Breeders' Plate fell to Golden Vision, on which Elliott rode a fine race; and Ditchley scored in the final event, the Tower Maiden Sweepstakes.

YACHTING.

MOTOR BOATING IN DUBLIN BAY.

It will be interesting to see what speed Mr. S. Robinson's new motor boat, at present cabin cruiser, Narcissus, will develop on trial. Laughing Jack, by Adhemar, of Patrick street, Dun Laoghaire, is a cabin cruiser, 30ft. over all, 9ft. 2in. beam, is fitted with a 26 h.p. Buick engine, and was only launched at the end of last week. As a boat of her class appearance is of little consequence, and in the case of a 26 h.p. Buick engine her lines are very comfortable cabin accommodation has been made, but not at the expense of graceful boat, as bit on the short side relatively to her length and light draft, and she possesses sufficient beam to give her a fair turn of speed. At present she is moored off the Green between the R.I.Y.C. and the Irish Lights Stores. Internally she is a very roomy and comfortable little ship.

It was the intention to have the motor boat tested at the Tailteann Regatta, and the motor boat event at Seapoint Regatta, and ready, but the race was in effect an informal trial for the bigger fixture. Owing to the Seapoint trial being postponed to Saturday owing to the weather being stormy and rough, twelve boats of varying sizes and types, but all purely power craft, and the range in size is marked. At one end are cruisers like Janet (40ft.), and such as Nellie, Paula (about 15 to 18 ft.), and of 3 h.p.

ANGLING.

KERRY LAKES AND RIVERS.

The rivers of Kerry are in fair order, though falling under the heavy dry spell. Salmon fishing on the Feale, Cashen, Gealt, and Smearlagh did very well in the past week, the fish running up to 30lbs.

The Lakes of Killarney are in good order, and angling both for salmon and trout, is picking up after a rather adverse spell of weather. This week a number of salmon up to 12lbs. were killed, chiefly by local men.

Other lakes of Kerry are fishing pretty well. On Coppall Lake, Mr. J. Fitzgerald, Mr. J. O'Connor, Mr. P. Sullivan, and others had from one dozen to two dozen trout, ranging from 4lb. to 1½lb. on the fly. The trout of this lake are not large, but very sporting.

LIVERPOOL.

TO-DAY'S PROGRAMME AND SELECTIONS.

The principal stake in the programme for the first stage of the Liverpool Meeting is the St. George's Stakes, which is almost at the mercy of the selected of Lord Woolavington's little lot. It is to be presumed that the selected of the Stanley House lot will win the Mersey Stakes. The dark Garpal has been well spoken of in this connection, but Pharos runs in his stead. He has Tornaveen to beat. The Molyneux Handicap is a dangerously open affair. Orby's Pride, Isle of Wight, and Stupidity have appealing claims, especially the last-named pair. Isle of Wight may just win. Selections:—

Hill House Handicap—Squarson.
Church House Plate—Heather Cross.
St. George's Stakes—Invergarry.
Molyneux Stakes—Isle of Wight.
Mersey Stakes—Pharos.
Southport Plate—Lady of the Rose.

Lenin and Russia.

The mysterious malady from which Lenin has been suffering for several months has given rise to repeated rumours of his death. Now a totally different rumour has been set on foot, and some quite reputable newspapers on the Continent have accepted it. According to this story, which originates from the Svenska Dagbladet, the leading journal of Stockholm, the Bolshevist leader has been murdered. He was on his way from Moscow to a Caucasian watering place, when he was poisoned by agents of the Radical Party which has taken over command of affairs in the capital. His body, the story continues, was thrown from the train into the River Don at Bostov; and one of his attendants, a member of the Executive of the Third International, who was a party to the crime, is impersonating him in the Caucasus. Riga, through which the Swedish newspapers get their Russian news, is a hotbed of political intrigue and propaganda, and the "fully trustworthy sources" of its information are anything but sound. Nevertheless, when the Tsar and his family were murdered by the Bolsheviks similar rumours were afloat, and the people of Europe refused to believe them. Big changes are taking place in Russia. Nobody outside her frontiers knows the tortures of mind and body through which her distracted people are passing; but it is quite certain that the days of the unchallenged dictatorship of Lenin and Trotsky are over, and that, whether they are dead or alive, their power is on the wane.

This fact became clear at Genoa. For all their bravado, the Russian delegates showed great anxiety to come to terms with the Allies; and, although the Conference failed to achieve an agreement, it proved that the Bolshevist creed had been abandoned, to a large extent, by the Soviet Government. Lenin's aim was the complete abolition of "Capital," and its substitution by a purely communist system of economics. To that end he fostered revolutions in every country in the world. During the past twelve months, however, he and his associates have been yielding ground. The outbreak of the dreadful famine on the Volga brought the whole crazy structure of Bolshevist theory crashing in ruins about its architects' heads, and the Treaty of Rapallo, which the Russians concluded with the late Dr. Rathenau, constituted a complete surrender of communist principles. Germany to-day probably the most highly "capitalised" country on earth. Even America cannot compete with her in gigantic trusts and economic combines, and the very important concessions which were made by the Bolsheviks in the Treaty will have the effect of making Russia a partner in many of them. A year ago Lenin or Trotsky would have scorned the idea of a pact with Herr Hugo Stinnes. They still were clinging to their Marxian ideals in the tenacity of despair. Now their grip has relaxed, and Lenin's day is done.

Up to the present Germany has been the only Power which has taken advantage of Russia's change of front. The Allies, hesitating between two policies, have done nothing. Whatever political changes may take place in Russia, that great country must continue to play a highly-important part in the world's affairs. From the point of view alike of strategy and economics Russia virtually commands Europe, while in Asia Minor and the Far East her influence is very strong. Under the old régime the enormous mass of the Russian people was illiterate. Under the new régime at least one notable improvement has been effected, and twenty years hence there hardly will be an illiterate person in Russia. Then democracy will begin to make itself heard, and a mighty nation will arise out of the ruins of "Holy Russia." Russia had her Lenin. France had her Robespierre. Men pass; but nations persist in striving towards their goal. How will the Allies fare in the day of Russia's awakening? They were her friends; Germany is her ancient enemy. Yet because Lenin, or Litvinoff, or Krassin, or some other political upstart insists on haggling over a pre-war debt, France will have nothing to do with her; and Britain stands committed to her Ally's policy. Surely this attitude of mind is very short-sighted. Some day—perhaps, sooner than any of us expect—120,000,000 Russians will be knocking at the door of Christendom. Lenin and his atrocities will be forgotten. The millions of francs that are due to French rentiers will be forgotten, too; but Russia is not likely to forget the indifference of her friends in her darkest days.

Italy's Troubles.

Ireland is not the only part of Western Europe which is suffering through disregard of the sanctions of law and order. In Italy the conflict between Communists and Fascisti threatens to shake the very foundations of the State. The latest incident in this warfare seems to be leading directly towards a Ministerial crisis. Cremona—famous as the home of the great violin-makers—was a quiet town until, two years ago, the Socialists and Communists achieved control of its municipal affairs. They hoisted the red flag, declared a strike against the payment of taxes, and threw the public administration deliberately into chaos with the object of promoting a Soviet revolution. The Fascisti are young men of extreme conservative views—in these islands they would be called "die-hards"—who have banded themselves together throughout Italy in order to suppress Communism by violent means. Some days ago one of their number was murdered in Cremona, and the organisation took immediate measures of reprisal. Detachments of Fascisti invaded the town in motor lorries, occupied public buildings and patrolled the streets: how easily many a town in Southern and Western Ireland can visualise the scene! The red flags were burned and some damage was done to the Communist headquarters. When the news reached Rome the business of the Chamber was interrupted and strong protests against the mobilisation of the Fascisti were made to the Government. The general alarm at this formidable defiance of authority is proved by the fact that, for once, the Communist and Catholic deputies found themselves in agreement. The Chamber was still sitting when further news arrived that the houses of a Catholic deputy and of some Socialist deputies had been set on fire. Feeling ran so high that the Premier, Signor Facta, was obliged to accept a motion for adjournment as a protest against the invasion of Cremona. It seems to be probable that, unless the Government decides at last to take serious measures for the enforcement of public order, it may be compelled to make room for stronger men. The action of the Catholic deputies has a significance that every student of Italian politics will appreciate. We may have a certain amount of sympathy with the Fascisti, who are single-minded in their desire to save their country from the horrors of Bolshevism. Nevertheless, no civilised Government can afford to allow any section of its citizens to take the law into their own hands or to challenge the majesty of the State. We may add that there is one crime which Italy's "irregulars," whether Fascisti or Communists, do not commit: they do not destroy the nation's public buildings. All Italians are equally proud of these legacies from a splendid past.

Esperanto.

The French Minister of Public Instruction, in throwing down the gauntlet to the Esperantists, has provoked a lively controversy. The Minister asks the French universities to discourage the study of Esperanto because—with other reasons—it is being used as the language of Bolshevism. The Secretary of the French Esperanto Society replies that this fact is the language's misfortune, not its fault. On the whole, however, the leading representatives of literature and scholarship seem to support the Ministerial view. M. Capus, of the Academy, holds that Esperanto is an unworthy rival of the national tongue and may check the development of young minds. Communist ideas, being primary, may be expressed in Esperanto; but "finer political thought demands a better language." Professor Aulard, of the Sorbonne, agrees that Esperanto is inferior to French. His practical conclusions, however, differ from those of M. Capus. He thinks that, while French must remain the international language of the élite, the workers ought to be encouraged to use Esperanto for international purposes—if only in order to prevent English from becoming the universal language. M. Aulard, it appears, is not jealous of the English language in its purer form; but he is afraid that, when applied to the uses of less advanced peoples, it may degenerate into a kind of "pidgin" English. Perhaps, the truest dictum on the whole subject is that of M. Colrat, who points out that a language is not merely a list of words, but a manner of thinking and feeling. The limitations of Esperanto are as obvious as its uses. It is an excellent means of communication between peoples; but it can have no literature because it has no temperament.

War and Weather.

At least one penalty of our national disorders is not confined within the four seas of Ireland. The fighting in the West has disorganised the weather reports which are of such value to the mariners and farmers of half the Continent. The Meteorological Office's "outposts" in Ireland are at Blacksod Point in Mayo and at Valencia in Kerry; and their observations have not been received in London during the last four days. Unfortunately, these two stations are "the very soul of the machine." It is usually from these places that the first warning comes of the approach of cyclonic disturbances from the Atlantic. "They are undoubtedly," says The Times, "from the point of view of weather-forecasting, the most important observatories in the Kingdom." The lack of their records, however, is not so inconvenient to-day as it would have been a few years ago; for the gap is filled to some extent by the wireless reports from Atlantic liners. We must hope that Blacksod and Valencia soon will be restored to the service of science and humanity.

ROTARY'S MISSION.

A BOND OF FRIENDSHIP.

Members of the delegation to the recent Rotarian Conference at Los Angeles, numbering 30 in all, have returned in the Cunard liner Berengaria, which arrived at Southampton yesterday morning from New York.

The Chairman of the delegation, Councillor W. B. Sheard, of London, said that they had travelled during their six weeks' stay in the United States over 17,000 miles by train and 1,000 miles by motor car. They had attended 50 banquets, 30 luncheons, and he had made over 100 speeches.

He said that the Rotarian movement was growing stronger every day in the States, where at the present time they had 1,214 clubs with a membership of over 80,000.

In order to further the movement for a continuation of the good feeling that existed between the peoples of the two countries, it was hoped that arrangements would be completed whereby a large number of Rotarians from the United States would be invited next year to stay in the homes of Rotarians in England. It was generally thought, he said, that by introducing their American colleagues into their homes they could much more closely cement the good relationship than by letting them stay at hotels.

KIDNAPPED SPECIALS.

QUESTION OF RELEASE.

Sir W. Davison yesterday asked the Secretary for the Colonies whether the 11 Ulster Special Constabulary who were kidnapped at Belcoo had yet been released; whether it was known where these men were detained; and what action the Provisional Government had taken to secure their release.

Mr. Churchill said that, according to the latest information he had received, these eleven constables, who were believed to be confined at Athlone, had not yet been released. He was assured that steps were being taken by the Provisional Government, in response to the continued representations he had made to them, to secure the release of these and other inhabitants of Northern Ireland who were being detained in the South.

Sir W. Davison—Is the right hon. gentleman satisfied as to the safety of these men meanwhile, and will he make representations that the Government will be held responsible for the safety of these citizens?

Mr. Churchill—I have made every representation, and also in the case of the fifteen men who were taken at Pettigo.

Captain Craig asked whether Athlone was not a town which was in the hands of the Free State authorities, and, if so, what difficulty could Mr. Collins have in obtaining the release of these men.

Mr. Churchill—I suppose the only difficulty is the strain and stress the Government are labouring under at the present time.

COMPENSATION AWARDS.

Sir J. Baird answered, in the negative, Colonel Newman, who asked the Chancellor of the Exchequer whether, having regard to the low Bank rate and to the sums of money now seeking employment, he would make arrangement, in conjunction with His Majesty's Government and the Provisional Government, with leading British and Irish banks, whereby amounts up to one-half of the sums awarded as compensation in respect of malicious injury to property by the Irish County Courts could be advanced to those who held the decrees at a rate of interest not exceeding 2 per cent. above the Bank rate.

IRISH ART EXHIBITION.

TO BE OPENED AT BALLSBRIDGE.

A meeting of the Committee of the Irish Art Exhibition was held in Leinster House on Monday afternoon, Mr. George Atkinson, R.H.A., in the chair. Also present:—C. Green, B.A.; P. Oswald Reeves, A.R.C.A.; N. Blair Browne, R.H.A.; Lucius O'Callaghan, F.R.I.A.I.; Oliver Sheppard, R.H.A.; Jack B. Yeats, R.H.A.; Colm O Lochlainn, J. Clarke, Paul Henry, Miss E. Gleeson, and Dermod O'Brien, President, R.H.A., and Mr. Arthur E. Moran, Honorary Secretary.

The Chairman reported that it had been been found necessary to postpone the Aonac Tailteann for a year. The Tailteann Council were, however, anxious that the great exhibition of Irish Art organised by this Committee should, if possible, be held, in view of the large number of competitors who had prepared work specially for the occasion, and were looking forward to the sales which would accrue from such an important display. The Tailteann Council had, therefore, unanimously decided to invite the Royal Dublin Society's further co-operation in the hope that such could be arranged in connection with the coming Horse Show.

Mr. Bohane attended on behalf of the Royal Dublin Society, and the Committee expressed their great appreciation of the support that would be accorded by the Society and the Department of Agriculture which would enable the Committee to carry out the original programme in its entirety, including the substitution of prizes for those which had been offered by the Aonac Tailteann.

It was, therefore, unanimously decided that the exhibition should be held at Ballsbridge that month, and should open on the 15th August (the first day of the Horse Show), instead of on the 6th. In view of this alteration of date, competitors are to be informed that exhibits must not be sent to Ballsbridge before 27th July, and not later than the 29th.

The arrangements for this exhibition, for which upwards of 2,000 entries have been received, will remain in the hands of the Tailteann Art Sub-Committee, and it is their intention to make the event in every way a popular one. Facilities will be afforded for an extension of this display beyond the Horse Show.

COURT AND PERSONAL.

The Duke of Connaught has promised to lead the London Irish, of which he is Honorary Colonel, in the march past at the Royal review of the London Territorial divisions in Hyde Park next Saturday. This will be the first Territorial review since 1913, and it is announced that, besides the King and Queen, the Prince of Wales, the Princess Royal and Princess Maud, and Princess Louise Duchess of Argyll will be present.

* * *

The American Ambassador and Mrs. Harvey have been entertaining a great deal this season at the American Embassy. They are now looking forward to a restful time in Scotland, where they have taken Kinnacoil, Lady Muir-Mackenzie's place, near Dunkeld, for a couple of months.

MUTINEERS WITHDRAW

DESTRUCTION IN EVACUATED TOWNS

ACCORDING TO PLAN.

INSTRUCTIONS REVEALED BY CAPTURED DOCUMENTS.

There is still no news from the South. In other parts of the country, however, the national forces have made good progress.

The irregulars have been driven from several towns, and in no case have they offered a serious resistance. In nearly every case, however, they have burned the barracks, torn up railway lines, blocked the roads, and seized property as they retreated.

Documents which have been seized at Kilkenny show that they have been instructed to cause as much damage as possible.

SILENCE OF LIMERICK.

POOR TOLD TO LEAVE THEIR HOMES.

There is much anxiety concerning the situation in Limerick. There have been many inquiries at the Irish Times Office for the latest news by persons having family or commercial ties with that city, but it has been impossible to give them any tidings of the position. No news is being received from Limerick, and the only information available is that picked up from individuals who have managed to reach Dublin by devious routes from the South.

The last official bulletin was that issued last Friday evening, announcing that fighting had been in progress since the previous Tuesday, and that the National troops were in possession of strategical points. Since then, however, there has been a strange silence since then, with the result that the wildest rumours have been afloat. It is reported that the supply of provisions is running seriously low, and that starvation exists in the poorer districts. A cargo of yeast has, however, been despatched from Dublin, and it should help in relieving the position. It is difficult, indeed, to believe that a city like Limerick, with its creameries, bacon factories, flour mills, and bakeries, and its splendid portal facilities, could be reduced to such straits within a week, unless the irregulars have stripped the city of its food supplies.

MAYOR'S PROCLAMATION.

It has been ascertained that a proclamation has been issued by the Mayor, requiring women and children and old men to leave the districts of Carey's road, Edward street, Collooney street, and districts adjoining the New Barracks, and advising them to seek refuge in certain buildings outside the danger zone. Large numbers of residents took the advice, left their homes, and sought shelter elsewhere.

A gentleman who arrived in Dublin by a circuitous route from Limerick stated that the situation there was extremely tense. The Irregulars hold certain parts of the city, and the National troops were in possession of other parts. For a time matters were complicated by a third detachment, which was operating on its own account, but it was afterwards merged with the Irregulars in the Strand Barracks. This third party had occupied the old Y.M.C.A. premises in Fery square, but was surrounded, and, after some parleying, was allowed to walk out.

The National troops held all that portion of the city east of William street, which includes the old town, St. Mary's Cathedral, the Courthouse, and the Strand road. The Irregulars were in possession of the upper portion of O'Connell street, which is the main thoroughfare, and the surrounding streets, as well as the docks. The possession of the latter, it is stated, gave the Irregulars control of the shipping, and apparently they made considerable use of their opportunity, many ships having been looted. In O'Connell street they unrolled in connection through certain houses into Cecil street, to the Telephone Exchange and the Post Office, of which they had possession. They also blew up some bridges north of Limerick, thus dislocating the train service, especially that on the Athenry line.

PREPARED FOR RETREAT.

This account would bring the situation up to the end of last week. What has happened since then can only be surmised, but it is evident from the Mayor's proclamation that the New Barracks, the stronghold of the Irregulars, is the principal danger zone. The Irregulars have evidently been driven to the western portion of the city, and the fact that their last stand will probably be at the New Barracks seems to show that they are endeavouring to keep a line of retreat open to the South-West in the direction of Cork and Kerry.

It is not known whether the main attack has been launched against them there, or whether the National troops are waiting for the result of the operations now in progress in the north-eastern portion of the province. The latter would, indeed, seem to be the more likely in view of the statement that Templemore, Thurles, Clonmel, and other centres are being evacuated by the Irregulars—all pointing to a further retreat southward. Waterford, too, is stated to be clear of the Irregulars, but Cork still remains in their possession.

A CONTRADICTION.

LETTER FROM MISS MADGE CLIFFORD.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE IRISH TIMES.

SIR,—I wish to draw your immediate attention to a statement made in the Irish Times of to-day:—

"Another woman, named Madge Clifford, also wearing the Red Cross badge, when examined by women searchers, was found to have ammunition concealed in her clothes. The ammunition found on the prisoner was nearly all dum-dum."

This statement is entirely false. Nothing whatever was found on my person when searched, as may be proved by the woman searcher, who reported this to the officer in charge in my presence. Kindly take immediate steps to contradict this statement; otherwise I will be compelled to take whatever legal proceedings may be advised.—Yours, etc.,

MADGE CLIFFORD.

25 Suffolk street, Dublin,
July 18th, 1922.

[The statement to which Miss Clifford refers was contained in an official report which was issued from the General Headquarters of the Irish Army, and was supplied to the Press in the ordinary course.—ED., I.T.]

MIDNIGHT CAPTURE.

EXPLOSIVES IN TAXI-CAB.

The following official statement was issued at 2.15 this morning from G.H.Q., Irish Army:—

"Two taxi-cars passing through Naas about midnight aroused the suspicion of troops on duty in the town, and the drivers were called upon to halt, but they refused.

"A party set out in a Lancia car, and pursued both vehicles for about six miles, when one car was captured. The second car got away in the direction of Clane. Five men were found in the captured car, all of whom were made prisoners.

"The car was found to contain a barrel with about four stone of gelignite, a quantity of detonators, six bombs, some small arms, and a quantity of cable."

AMBUSH IN DONEGAL.

A report from Donegal states that a cyclist patrol of National troops was ambushed at Doocharry Bridge, West Donegal, on Monday night. One of the patrol was shot dead and some was wounded; the others escaped.

All the reports dealing with the military and political situation which we publish to-day have been passed by the Government Censor.

WHOLESALE DESTRUCTION

IRREGULARS' INSTRUCTIONS.

Thirteen prisoners, including a man who is alleged to have threatened the life of Col.-Commandant Prout, were captured at Windgap, Co. Kilkenny, by National forces. Among despatches found on them were the following:—

"H.G. Kilkenny Bgde.
5/7/22.

"To O.C. Fiddown Barracks.

"1. You will take complete control of Fiddown Bridge. Have rifle men posted on each side of bridge. Do not keep any rifles inside barracks, and be ready to destroy same if there is an attack on it.

"2. Fiddown Bridge is a key to Waterford, hence you can see its importance. If needs be it must be destroyed, and be ready to destroy it.

"3. Make all roads leading to Fiddown and Carrick impassable. Have all available men and commandeered labour working day and night to make these roads absolutely impassable.

"4. The above is imperative and the present is a time when obedience to orders may mean success or failure. The man who does not obey at present must receive extreme penalty. You are at liberty to inflict same on any who disobey your orders.

"(Signed.)
E. Aylward, O.C.

"To O.C. 8th Battalion.

"H.G. Kilkenny Bgde.
8/5/22.

"1. On receipt of notice that truce has terminated you will proceed immediately to demolish all barracks in your area in which have been held by our troops up to the present.

"2. You will form a flying column in your area, and all available arms and equipment must be in the hands of the column.

"3. On expiration of truce you will send a messenger to Callan for instructions.

"4. The column while awaiting instructions will destroy—(a) all railway lines in area (b) all roads in area (c) all telegraph and telephone communications. If there are no satisfactory results from present truce we have decided to adopt guerilla tactics, hence the necessity for destruction of all barracks, roads, etc. All communications for the brigade will be addressed to Callan and sent by despatch.

"(Signed)
"E. AYLWARD, O.C."

The prisoners were found encamped near Windgap Hill. They surrendered after a brief exchange of shots. Two road mines, some hand grenades, arms, and ammunition were also captured. The prisoners are at present confined in Kilkenny Jail.

The full text of the despatches from Eamon Aylward that were found on one of the prisoners captured in Windgap was displayed in the Kilkenny Post Office window, and the references to the "commandering" of labour and the authorisation to inflict the extreme penalty in case of disobedience of orders have created a sensation in Kilkenny.

STATE OF SLIGO.

IRREGULARS LEAVE WITHOUT A FIGHT.

The Irregulars have left Sligo. The following story of events in the town for the past week has been collected from letters sent by a person living in the town, and posted in another part of Ireland:—

About a week ago the National troops and the Irregulars faced each other across Albert street, the Nationals in the Courthouse, the Irregulars in No. 1 Police Station. The Nationals determined to attack the Police Station, and took it with a few casualties to either side and one civilian killed; but in the course of the fighting the barracks was set on fire, and was unable to be saved.

From then on till last Thursday morning a kind of armed truce prevailed. On Thursday the Irregulars planned and carried out their successful ambush near Rockwood, in which they captured an armoured machine gun car and an armoured lorry. With their spoil they marched into Sligo early on Friday morning. Arriving at a tired and hungry condition, they quartered themselves on the inhabitants and took over all buildings commanding the thoroughfares. On the flat roof of the Ulster Bank one, or perhaps two, machine guns were posted. The Hibernian Bank was fortified; so also were the Harp and Shamrock Hotel, at whose base lay the armoured car, commanding all approaches to the Courthouse; Hamilton's, in Knox street; the Old Connaught Warehouse, in High street, and the Hermitage, a large private house facing the Goal (this in the hands of the National troops), upon the opposite side of the river.

The inhabitants expected a fight, and many of them left for Rosses Point and other neighbouring places; but on Saturday, without any apparent reason, the Irregulars "drew stumps" and marched away on the Bundoran road, apparently to join the small bands still operating in Donegal.

THIRD ATTACK.

At about 3.30 o'clock on Sunday morning the National troops at Manorhamilton were attacked for the third time inside a fortnight with rifle and machine-gun fire. The troops replied, and intermittent fire was kept up until about 6 o'clock.

The Irregulars, it is stated, were accompanied by an armoured car and lorry. The National troops sustained no casualties, and those amongst the Irregulars are unknown, but it has been definitely ascertained that at least one Irregular was seriously wounded. He was taken away by his comrades. A number of bridges on the principal roads have been destroyed, and others have been blocked with stones.

EXCOMMUNICATION.

CARDINAL LOGUE'S WARNING TO LOOTERS.

Preaching at Carlingford on Sunday, Cardinal Logue said that the country, which had never dreamt of such liberties, had welcomed the terms of the Treaty. Then a faction arose and, to some extent, flouted the Government nominated by themselves. But when the people got a chance of registering their opinions they declared for the Treaty because it gave them the widest liberties.

This factionism has now developed into brigandage, and continued its opposition to authorised government until, at the present time, there was no law or order in many parts of the country. Those looters, who would not work, were having the times of their lives going about in stolen motor cars. Roving parties of men were behaving as bandits, living on the people, and all this tended towards the ruination of the country.

He was sorry that things were not what they should be in Carlingford, where he had spent so much of his time. Outrages had been committed, retired policemen, their wives, and families had been ordered to leave the town, and, evidently in pursuance of that order, the house of one of them was fired into not later than Friday last. He deplored such conduct, and pointed out that many of the people it was sought to clear were natives of the district.

The Cardinal denounced the burning of a motor boat in Carlingford Lough. The boat belonged to the Lough Commission, and probably the ratepaying community would have to pay for the damage.

He referred further to the looting of oil from the ss. Silver Foy, and added that anyone looting in that parish, or coming into the parish from without to loot or destroy property, or anyone aiding or abetting in that fell work, would be, by the very fact, excommunicated.

CHEMICAL WORKS EXPLOSION.

GREAT FIRE IN NEW YORK.

TWO KILLED & THIRTY INJURED.

A great fire, started by a series of explosions in a chemical works, occurred in New York yesterday morning. Two lives are known to have been lost, thirty injured persons have been rescued, and much material damage was done.

It is believed that stores of gunpowder became ignited, and thick clouds of yellow smoke poured from the windows of the building. Several explosions followed, and great holes were blown in the walls of the warehouse in which the fire originated. Windows over a wide area were shattered.

At noon all the available firemen of New York were working under a blazing sun to subdue the flames. Thick clouds of pungent smoke awirled round the building, the firemen being obliged to use a searchlight to enable them to locate the flames.

AFTER THE COUP.

ALL QUIET IN DUNDALK.

Everything was quiet in Dundalk yesterday. The attack on the national patrols which took place on Sunday afternoon was directed from "the demesne." In addition to the shots fired at the patrol in Park street others were directed at the guard at the station, and the glass roof at the station bears evidence of the bullets—twelve large panes of glass having been smashed. Irregulars were busy around the town on Sunday night. On the main sewers and many telephone posts were cut down and strewn along the road, and at Hackballscross, on the Castleblayney road, trees were used to block the entrance to the town. Subsequently the night the town was patrolled by strong guards from the military barracks, and there was no disturbance.

A Post Office clerk, named Sweeney, was taken into custody on Monday after he had entered the office to work.

In connection with the taking over of the Bridge street Barracks it was learned that the men there were all members of the North Louth police force, and ten of them who were in the barracks, together with some on patrol on the town at the time, were arrested. When the barracks were found two guns which had been kept for officers in charge of the night patrols. These men were taken prisoners to the military barracks, from which they were released later on.

Many of the prisoners taken have joined the National Army.

One result of the successful operations in Dundalk was that 18 men who had been kidnapped in various parts of the six counties and held as prisoners were released.

They were sent to Northern territory on Monday.

There was continual shooting for four hours on Monday night. Several of the military posts were fired on, revolvers and rifles being used in the attacks. The first attack was at the northern end of the town, where a National guard has taken over McShane's public-house. Here the troops replied with machine gun fire. Other attacks were directed from the demesne and from Clanbrassil street. No casualties are reported. All positions in the town are now held by the soldiers, and the town is well guarded.

The main Newry road is being cleared of the felled telephone poles. Several arrests have been made by the national forces, including two men who motored through the town on Monday night. They were stated to belong to a camp some miles north of the town.

SHIPPING INCIDENT.

KIDNAPPING OF WIRELESS OPERATOR.

Mr. Pennefather yesterday asked the Colonial Secretary if he was aware that a report has reached England to the effect that during the last few days armed men forcibly removed from a British vessel in Waterford Harbour its wireless equipment, and subsequently afterwards the kidnapped the wireless operator; can he state whether he has any official information on this matter, and, if so, what action has been or will be taken.

Mr. Churchill—A report of these incidents has been received from the shipping company which owns the vessel referred to, and I have received further information from other sources. The information has been passed on to the Provisional Government in Dublin, who will, I have no doubt, take all steps in their power to defeat the consequences and prevent the repetition of such lawless acts, committed by those with whom they are engaged in open conflict.

Mr. Rupert Gwynne asked whether the Provisional Government were able to stop a repetition of this sort of thing.

Mr. Churchill said that the Free State had one or two small steamers for transport and stores services at different points of the coast. Of course, the British Government could easily take steps by sending ships of war, but it would be much better to give the Irish Government full opportunity to make the will of the Irish people effective throughout the territory under their jurisdiction.

A SNIPER'S BULLET.

PATIENT SHOT IN NURSING HOME.

Yesterday at the Dublin City Sessions Patrick J. Fearon claimed compensation for malicious injury through being shot by a sniper.

It appeared from the evidence that on April 20th he was a patient at a nursing home in Upper Merrion street. There was an attack on the guard at the Provisional Government Offices that night and a bullet came through the window and hit the applicant in the groin. He was severely wounded, and spent some time in another nursing home.

Mr. J. O'Connor, for the applicant, said that the bullet must have been fired from a roof, as the bed had been placed in the position that it was for greater safety. The bullet could not have come from the National troops.

The Recorder asked how it came within the Malicious Injury Acts?

Mr. O'Connor said that surely if a body of snipers conspired to attack the seat of lawful Government that brought it within the Acts.

The applicant gave evidence, and said that four bullets came through the window that night.

His lordship awarded £50 compensation, and £42 in respect of medical expenses.

TEMPLEMORE RELIEVED.

Much to the relief of the inhabitants, the Irregulars have left Templemore, and yesterday the banks were re-opened and business began to revive.

Before they left the military barracks the Irregulars issued a notice that the place was mined, and that any person who attempted to enter it would run grave risks. Many of the Irregulars said that they intended to return to their homes and to take no further part in the fighting.

An advance party of National troops arrived in the town on Monday evening. They were met by Canon Kelly, P.P., and Father Hickey, C.C., and were welcomed warmly by the townspeople. They occupied the military barracks, and managed to remove all the mines.

The activities of the Irregulars had brought business to a stand-still. Many motor cars and all the petrol in the town had been seized, and such large quantities of foodstuffs had been stolen that the townspeople were brought to the verge of starvation.

BRIDGES DESTROYED.

Ten bridges on the Tipperary side of the Shannon, on the roads to Nenagh and Birr, have been blown up, and large quantities of fallen trees block the main roads. Major-General McKeon visited Portumna recently.

POSTAL SERVICE INTERRUPTED.

The British Postmaster-General has been informed by the Postmaster-General of the Irish Provisional Government that owing to the disturbed conditions and the dislocation of train and mail services delay in delivery of letters, parcels, and other postal packets addressed to any part of Southern Ireland is still likely to occur. The parcel post to places in the Counties of Clare, Cork, Galway, Kerry, King's County, Limerick, Mayo, Roscommon, Sligo, Tipperary, and Waterford is completely suspended until further notice.

MOUNTBATTEN MARRIAGE.

PRINCE AS BEST MAN.

KING AND QUEEN PRESENT.

Enthusiastic scenes were witnessed yesterday at St. Margaret's Church, Westminster, when Lord Louis Mountbatten was married to Miss Edwina Ashley.

The ceremony, attended by the King and Queen and Queen Alexandra, with the Prince of Wales as best man, was of remarkable brilliance, and thousands of people flocked to the church to witness it.

The King and Queen, with other members of the Royal Family, were given a stirring ovation, and the arrival of the Prince, with the bridegroom, was greeted with tremendous cheering.

The bridegroom, with the Prince, was smiling at every opportunity. The Prince took great interest in his surroundings, and when his duty of handing up the ring was over, he sat on the right of the Queen at special chairs and service desks provided.

The bride chose a ring of narrowest possible width, the gold being scarcely visible on her left hand.

Princess Mary was wearing a dress and coat of beige crepe Romain, with the new pouched bag and a wide feathered hat to match. Queen Alexandra wore a pansy velvet gown, embroidered in silver.

Miss Ashley's dress of silver tissue was made on the simplest lines, with its tight-fitting sleeves covering the palms of her hands, the corsage straight and touching the figure with a low hip line. The skirt folds were held by plastrons of silver embroidery about six inches wide, worked in diamonds and pearls, and holding again narrow stole-like ends, which just touched the ground. Her train of silver was four yards in length, covered with the wonderful old point de Venise lace given her by her great aunt, Mrs. Cassel, and this was placed in panels on the train, outlined with silver galon. Another piece of lace mounted on the summit of the train fell in two long ends which bordered the edge for half the length.

The veil of silken tulle was held by a coronet of latticed orange blossom, each diamond shaped, centred with a dewdrop diamond.

The bride was given away by Colonel Wilfrid Ashley, M.P., her father.

Much interest centred in the group of bridesmaids. These were Lady Mary Ashley, eldest daughter of the Earl and Countess of Shaftesbury; Miss Mary Ashley, the bride's sister; Miss Jean Pakenham, the bride's cousin; the four daughters of Princess Andrew of Greece — Princesses Margarita, Theodora, Cecile, and Sophie—nieces of Lord Louis Mountbatten, whose sister, Princess Victoria, married Prince Andrew of Greece.

At Brook House, where the wide white marble staircase is one of the finest in London, the reception was held by Colonel and Mrs. Wilfrid Ashley and Mrs. Cassel. Guests were received in the large drawingroom, where an avenue of orange blossom, myrtle, and lung with the ripe fruit, led the way to the happy couple.

The bride chose a travelling dress of warm coral pink, and the dress had panels which at each side touched the ground. Bands of crinkled ribbon, in a darker tone, trimmed the straight corsage back and front, and the long, loose sleeves were caught at the wrist with a narrow bracelet of the ribbon and material. Her coat was of brown crepe marocain, with wide sleeves, buckled again with a strap to the wrist, and the high collar also ruched and barred with brown velvet pipings.

It is announced in the London Gazette that the King has appointed Lord Louis Mountbatten a Knight Commander of the Victorian Order.

GALWAY OUTRAGES.

FUNERAL PROCESSION AMBUSHED.

At about 11 o'clock last Saturday evening a small patrol doing duty on the streets of Gort was ambushed from the top of the railway bridge. Volunteer Patrick Greaney (21), a native of Furbough, Spiddal, was killed, while Private Michael Keady (30), also a native of Spiddal, was wounded in the leg. Bombs were used by the irregulars, and the engagement lasted for about a quarter of an hour, during which the fire was hotly returned by the troops, with what results is not known.

There was a sequel to the ambush on Monday morning, when the remains of Greaney were being taken from Gort by motor to Spiddal for interment. The body was accompanied by Father Considine, the parish priest, and the mother of the dead man, and seven or eight unarmed comrades from Gort. At Craughwell the funeral cortège was joined by Brigadier Callinan, Battalion Commandant Rooney, and two soldiers. Near Coshla, Athenry, the funeral was ambushed from both sides of the road, and Battalion Commandant Rooney, an old and well-known Volunteer, a native of Craughwell, was shot dead. Eight or ten regular soldiers with the party were captured. Immediately eight lorry loads of regulars went in full pursuit of the ambushers, and it is reported that they were in contact with them on Monday evening.

IRISH FREE STATE.

QUESTION OF CITIZENSHIP.

Mr. Churchill writes, in reply to Major Kelley, that the Constitution of the Irish Free State, as drafted, does not purport to determine the future acquisition of citizenship in the Free State. It only defines who will be Irish Free State citizens at the date when the Constitution comes into operation. Any British subject, from Yorkshire or elsewhere in England, if domiciled in the Free State at that date, will be entitled to Free State citizenship if he be himself, or if either of his parents was born in Ireland, or if at that date he has been domiciled in the area of the Free State for seven years.

The acquisition of citizenship after the Constitution comes into operation will depend upon further legislation by the Irish Free State.

He was not prepared to intimate that, failing such recognition of common citizenship, all Irishmen coming to Yorkshire or elsewhere in England would have to register under the Aliens Act; but, of course, Parliament could at any time institute any discrimination it might think desirable, though such discrimination would not necessarily take the form of requiring Irishmen to register under the Aliens Act.

FLIGHT, BUT NO FIGHT.

Having set fire to the barracks which they had occupied for several days and the drawbridge across the Shannon, the Irregulars withdrew from Banagher (King's County) on Sunday evening. Earlier in the day it had been reported that the National troops were encircling the town, and the Irregulars at once made hurried preparations for flight.

All the roads, except the main road to Birr, had been blocked, and this impeded the advance. Early on Monday morning the news was circulated that an advance guard of the National force had occupied the old castle and tower on the Galway side of the river, and virtually everybody in the town went out to meet them. Planks were taken, and a footway was built on the ruins of the bridge. A small party of troops entered the town, but the main body remained outside.

AEROPLANE ACCIDENT.

An aeroplane accident occurred outside Naas on Monday, as a result of which one of the two occupants was seriously injured in the back. The machine was forced to descend owing to engine trouble. On alighting, it ran into a depression in the field and tipped over. The injured man and the damaged plane were sent to Dublin.

TWELFTH OF JULY IN BELFAST.

The Belfast Catholic Protection Committee states:—

"The Ulster Association draws public attention to the peace and order in Belfast during the 12th of July celebrations. It attributes this state to the absence of gunmen and the activity of the Northern Government. The peace and order in Belfast were merely comparative. The sniper, the bomber, and the mob were still in evidence, and the peace enjoyed by the Catholic portion of the community as a consequence was of the expectant order. Their fears were not realised owing to prompt action by the authorities, as unexpected as it was gratifying in view of past events, and to which we pay tribute."

NORTHERN RAILWAY COMMISSION.

The Railway Commission in Northern Ireland will meet in the Central Hall, Municipal College of Technology, Belfast, at 11 a.m. to-morrow, and on Friday. Evidence will be heard from railway companies, trade unions, and other bodies. The proceedings will be public.

NEGOTIATIONS TO REOPEN.

HAGUE DEADLOCK ENDED.

RUSSIA'S REQUEST GRANTED

"TO CONSIDER NEW PROPOSALS."

The non-Russian Commission at The Hague Conference has decided to accept the proposal of the Russian delegation, and to summon for to-day a plenary session of the full Conference.

In the letter communicating this decision, the Russians are informed that the meeting will be only to consider new facts or new proposals.

Sir Philip Lloyd-Graeme, at a meeting of the non-Russian Commission yesterday, said that it must be made quite clear that the plenary session of the full Conference would not go over the ground that had been covered without results at the other meetings with the Russians.

RUSSIA'S LAST CHANCE.

MUST PRESENT FRESH FACTS.

THE HAGUE, Tuesday.

Sir Philip Lloyd Greame, speaking at the plenary session of the Non-Russian Commission to-day, pointed out that he had not expressed any opinion on the merits of the proposal contained in M. Litvinoff's letter, as that was clearly a subject for a plenary session of the Conference.

"Let me say at once," he added, "that I have never entertained any doubt as to the course which ought to be followed. It is wholly untrue to say that the procedure which has been followed by the Commission is, on the contrary, it has been singularly successful in making the position perfectly clear in all the three Sub-Commissions, nor was the present position due to the form of procedure adopted in the relations of the Sub-Commissions one to another.

"The findings of those Sub-Commissions upon the facts brought before them were findings upon the merits of the facts. If new facts or new proposals were brought forward, this Commission or the Sub-Commissions would be prepared to consider them. In my view, the Commission should be dissolved, in order to hear the Russian Commission upon any new facts or proposals."

The speaker emphasised the importance of making it perfectly clear to the Russians that a meeting of the plenary session of the Conference would not go over again the ground which had already been abundantly covered and carefully explained in previous deliberations.

M. Cattier, Belgium, endorsed the proposal to re-open the negotiations, pointing out, however, that its object was not to give the Russians an opportunity of bringing fresh facts in either to obtain some ultimate advantage, or to create dissension in the unity of front of the non-Russian Commission.

INTER-ALLIED QUESTIONS.

PREMIERS EXPECTED TO MEET SHORTLY.

PARIS, Tuesday.

The Diplomatic Correspondent of the Havas Agency learns from an authoritative source that M. Poincaré has officially informed the British Government this evening that he is unable to name a date on which he would be able to meet Mr. Lloyd George in London until he is acquainted with the report of the Committee of Guarantees, which is likely to form a serious basis for any conversations on the reparations question.

M. Poincaré's Note, which was handed to Sir Milne Cheetham, British Chargé d'Affaires in Paris, does not, however, in any way exclude the possibility of an interview between the two statesmen.

In well-informed French circles, it is generally believed that an interview between M. Poincaré and Mr. Lloyd George will take place towards the beginning of next month. A new method of procedure has just been initiated with the object of establishing peace in the Near East, and the Tangier question will probably be discussed by the meeting of experts with regard to the reparation problem.

The Matin says that the British Government has recently despatched to the French Government a Note requesting that this question be made the subject of an immediate meeting between the two Prime Ministers.

It is to be observed, declares the Matin, that this Conference ought not, in the view of the French Government, to assume the character of a meeting of the Supreme Council.—(Reuter.)

REICHSTAG COALITION.

POLITICAL CRISIS OVERCOME.

BERLIN, Tuesday.

The political crisis may be considered as overcome and a fresh lease of life secured by a Coalition as the result of the decision taken yesterday by the Independent Socialists Party in the Reichstag. The majority which has been in the Free State. It only defines who will be Irish Free State citizens at the date when the Constitution comes into operation. LENIN REPORTED MURDERED.

POISONED BY MOSCOW REACTIONARIES.

BODY THROWN INTO RIVER DON.

The Riga Correspondent of the Stockholm newspaper, Svenska Dagblad, telegraphs that he learns from a "perfectly reliable source" that Lenin was murdered on the night of July 3rd while on his way to the Caucasus by members of the Radical Party at present in power in Moscow, and that his body was thrown into the River Don.

Lenin was on his way to a bathing resort, where he was to stay to recuperate his health. He was poisoned on the train between 3 and 4 o'clock in the morning, and his body thrown into the river as the train passed over the bridge at Rostoff.

The message adds that one of Lenin's Radical attendants, a member of the Executive of the Third Internationale, who was an accomplice in the murder, is now impersonating Lenin at the Caucasian bathing-place

THE HORSE SHOW.

ROYAL DUBLIN SOCIETY'S DECISION.

With the extension of the time for entering exhibits for the Ballsbridge Horse Show on August 15th and three following days, there appears to be a likelihood of a record entry. Applications have been received from owners of hunters in Tipperary, Cork, Waterford, and other places which have been more or less out of reach with the civil war for some little time. The receipt of next Saturday's post will disclose the extent to which the Show is supported, as many intending exhibitors invariably hold the last moment before sending in their forms.

"Meanwhile," said Mr. E. Bohane, Director of the Royal Dublin Society, in an interview with an Irish Times representative yesterday, "we are proceeding with every intention of holding the Show. We feel that it is a duty that the Society owes to the country at the present time to endeavour to carry on and provide a mart for the sale of Irish hunters."

RAILWAY RATES OF PAY.

ANOTHER MEETING IN DUBLIN.

A meeting was held yesterday at the Irish Railway Clearing House between representatives of the Irish railway companies and the railway trade unions, i.e., the N.U.R., the A.S.L.E. and F., and the R.C.A. The representatives of the companies intimated that they desired various changes in the agreements governing rates of pay and conditions of service, and suggested reductions to meet the financial difficulties of the companies and for other reasons. Failing any decision on this, it was stated that there would be a reversion on 16th August to the Carrigan awards of November and December last.

The union representatives stated their strong objection to, and their determination to resist such a course, and no agreement having been reached, a statement of the position has been sent by the unions to the Ministers of Labour for the Provisional and Northern Parliaments.

RUSSELL DIVORCE CASE.

REMARKABLE EVIDENCE.

During the hearing of the Russell divorce suit yesterday, the public were excluded from the court for a short time after the luncheon interval, while Mrs. Russell's baby was inspected by the jury.

The two named co-respondents, Mr. Gilbert Murray Bradley, and Mr. Lionel Leslie Cross, gave evidence, both emphatically denying any misconduct with Mrs. Russell.

Mr. J. B. Mackenzie said that he first saw respondent in June last year. She said that she had been to consult a clairvoyant, who told her that she was about to have a baby, and that was the first that fact realised. Witness examined her and told her that she was rather more than five months pregnant. He found her a virgo intacta. A few days later he saw husband, and learned that attempted intercourse had taken place just before Christmas, 1920. Witness based the date of confinement from the date given him by the husband. From witness's examination of the wife he was quite certain that she had not had proper intercourse with any man.

Dr. Stanley Dodd, a gynaecologist, gave evidence regarding two examinations he made of Mrs. Russell last August. The hearing was again adjourned.

MANCHESTER BANK ROBBED

BY ARMED RAIDERS.

Yesterday afternoon a raid was made upon a branch of the Manchester and Liverpool District Bank at Polefield, a quiet residential district three or four miles from Manchester, on the Prestwich side. Four armed men drove up in a taxi-cab, and, pointing a revolver at the bank staff, seized all the cash upon which they could lay their hands, and drove away. Two shots were fired, but there is no trace of bullets. The police last evening were scouring the district, but so far no arrest has been made.

BELFAST SNIPING.

There was some sniping in the Crumlin road district of Belfast last night, and Samuel Auld, aged 31, of Rosebeigh street, a mill worker, was struck in the chest. He was taken to the Royal Victoria Hospital, where his condition was reported to be serious.

ARMS SEIZED IN BELFAST.

A return which was issued yesterday gives the total seizures of implements of war by the Crown forces in Belfast since July 3 as follow:—Ammunition, over 4,000 rounds; bombs, 76; rifles, 17; shells, 6; land mines, 4; revolvers, 9; bayonets, 4; detonators, 46. In addition, there was a quantity of fire-raising material. All captures were made in Sinn Fein areas.

DEATH OF ARCHDEACON GOOLD ADAMS.

We regret to announce the death at Liverpool, on July 17th, of the Venerable Archdeacon Goold Adams, who was formerly Incumbent of All Saints' Church, Londonderry, and Archdeacon of Derry. A graduate of Trinity College, Dublin, he was ordained in the year 1876, and became curate of Taughboyne. Between 1901 and 1905 he acted as chaplain to the Lord Lieutenant, and from 1896 to 1911 Chaplain to the Archbishops of Armagh. He was appointed Canon of Derry in 1903; Rural Dean of Londonderry from 1897 to 1914, and Rector of Clonleigh from 1914 to 1920.

CLEARING BLOCKADED ROADS NEAR BOYLE.

The roads leading to Boyle are now almost cleared of heavy trees that were felled across them during the recent besieging of the town. So great was this blockade at one place, that boxes of eggs and other produce for Boyle had to be conveyed partly through fields.

RAILWAY LINE DAMAGED.

During Monday night rails were turn up on the Midland Great Western Railway line, between Carrick-on-Shannon and Boyle, and, as a result, the traffic—passenger and goods—was interrupted. The telegraph wires on both sides of Carrick-on-Shannon, on the Roscommon side, were also cut, and for the meanwhile this has completely cut off telegraphic communication.

Owing to the supplies of flour and meal being cut off as a result of the situation at Limerick and the occupation of Fannanlyne's mills, the people in the bigger parts of Co. Leitrim and North Roscommon are greatly affected, and it is feared that, unless supplies are immediately secured elsewhere, there will be a general shortage.

FROM TO-DAY'S LONDON PAPERS.

MANDATORY SYSTEM.

ITS FAILURE.

"THE TIMES" OF TO-DAY SAYS:—

When the Covenant of the League of Nations was framed and the mandatory system was devised as a means for disposing of territories withdrawn from the rule of the defeated nations, without placing them entirely at the mercy of the victors, no one quite knew how the mandates would work out. In practice, and in accordance with the temperament or traditions of the mandatories, they might approximate to annexation or protection, or, in the happiest event, they might develop into a system of wise tutelage, leading gradually to the complete independence of the mandated territories.

Naturally, the mandatory system does not fulfil its ideal. The forces of interest and inertia, the complexities of national temperament and the contrast between progressive and backward peoples are far too strong. At the present stage the results of the mandatory system represent not so much a logical execution of the terms of the Versailles Treaty as a new and somewhat bewildering map of political ethnography.

EUROPEAN FINANCE.

A SERIOUS PROBLEM.

The Times, in a leading article, says:—There is some danger that insistence upon matters of form and upon theoretical rights may obscure the substance of the economic and financial problem that confronts Europe. Our Paris Correspondent stated yesterday that, according to information of a conclusive character, the British Prime Minister has "pronounced against the surrender of British credits on France—at least until France becomes more reasonable," whatever that may mean. He added that without some such compensation as is suggested in the employment of German "C" Bonds for the payment of Inter-Allied debts the French Government is likely to harden its heart, and he warned us that, if each Government is to insist with the utmost rigour on the part of the other, something worse than a deadlock is inevitable.

Apparently the visit of M. Poincaré to London is now being called in question, and there is some foolish talk in Paris of a French withdrawal from the Reparations Commission. We are glad to see that a writer so well versed in all matters concerning the Treaty of Versailles as M. André Tardieu insists in the Echo National, upon the need for a frank discussion between Paris and London. Reduced to its simplest expression, our proposal is that this country should seek to set an example in far-sighted, and eventually interested, generosity that might conceivably evoke a response and find imitators in other quarters.

If it be argued that we cannot afford to be even interestedly generous, the reply may resolve itself into a question whether we can better afford to be interestedly ungenerous. It is a problem for our statesmen as well as for our financial experts.

HIDDEN ARMS.

FIND IN A POLICE BARRACK.

The Berlin Correspondent of The Times writes:—There is no end to the discovery of hidden arms in Germany. Instances are reported every day. The most satisfactory point about these finds is that at least half of them are now being made by the Germans themselves. It is reported

MURDER OF SIR HENRY WILSON.

DEATH SENTENCE ON TWO MEN.

Joseph O'Sullivan (24) and Reginald Dunn (24) were charged at the Old Bailey yesterday with the murder of Field-Marshal Sir Henry Wilson.

Both prisoners admitted shooting Sir Henry Wilson when they were called upon to plead.

The judge said that he should treat this as a plea of not guilty, as they would say nothing more.

Dunn walked heavily across the dock and folded his arms. O'Sullivan stood stiffly at attention.

The Clerk of Arraigns read out the charge.

Dunn said—I admit shooting Sir Henry Wilson.

Are you guilty or not guilty of the murder of Sir Henry Wilson, repeated the Clerk.

Dunn—That is all I can say.

Mr. Artemus Jones, who appeared for the defence, asked Mr. Justice Shearman to take that as a plea of not guilty.

The judge—Unless he says guilty I shall treat it as a plea of not guilty.

The same question was put twice to O'Sullivan, who said—I admit shooting him, sir.

In this case a plea of not guilty was also entered.

There were two women on the jury.

The Attorney-General, in stating the case for the Crown, said that the prisoners fired revolver shots at Field-Marshal Wilson just as he was entering his house, 36 Eaton place. The wicked crime of murder, he added, is not qualified or palliated by the position of the victim. After a touching reference to Sir Henry's great military abilities, he said that Sir Henry reached his house at about 2.30 p.m. after unveiling a memorial tablet at Liverpool street Station to a number of employés of the Great Eastern Railway Company. He would prove by eye-witnesses that Sir Henry was done to death by shots from revolvers fired at him by the prisoners. Sir Henry fell on the doorstep, and two bullets passed through his lungs, causing death within a few minutes. He died without having spoken a single word.

The Attorney-General then narrated the chase of the prisoners, and their capture by the police.

THE EVIDENCE.

Cecil William Wilson, brother of Sir Henry, was asked by Mr. Artemus Jones if Sir Henry was employed as military adviser to the "Ulster" Government.

Witness replied that he could not say officially, but he had been over to Ireland during the last few days.

Dr. Spilsbury said that either of the two wounds in the lungs would have been fatal.

Witness also described four other wounds.

Before other witnesses were called, the Attorney-General said that he had given the witnesses an assurance, subject to his lordship's approval, that their names would not be revealed.

A number of witnesses who had given evidence at the inquest and at the subsequent police court proceedings as to the actual shooting were then called.

Inspector Burton, replying to prisoners' counsel, said that Dunn was twenty-four years of age. He joined the Army when eighteen years of age. He joined the Irish Guards, and attained the rank of corporal. Since the war he was studying at a University. Sullivan served in the Munster and London Regiments. He was employed at the Ministry of Labour.

The case for the Crown having concluded, Mr. Artemus Jones asked for Dunn to be allowed to make a statement from the dock before he addressed the jury.

A statement was handed to the judge, who said that it was a political manifesto justifying the right to kill, and could not allow it to be read. He could give evidence of it if wished.

At the end of a short adjournment, Mr. Artemus Jones said that in view of the judge's decision the prisoners had informed him that they did not desire to be legally represented any further, and he, therefore, withdrew from the case.

PRISONERS' STATEMENTS.

The judge was only five minutes in summing up, and the jury, after an absence of three minutes, found both the prisoners guilty.

Before being sentenced, Dunn said he was proudly conscious that he was an Irishman.

He was sorry the jury were denied the chance of hearing an honest Irishman's statement. The principles for which that country stood in the Great War were, he found as an Irishman, not applied to his country, and he had endeavoured to strike a blow for it.

Asked if he had anything to say why sentence should not be passed, Dunn said—

The motive for the crime being described as political and not relevant to the Court, should be put for arbitration before a Court which would be competent to deal with these matters—a Court of higher powers in Europe, which would consider the rights and wrongs of ridding the human world of a scourge."

O'Sullivan said—"All I have done I have done for Ireland, and for Ireland I am proud to die."

When the Judge, in passing sentence of death on Dunn, came to the words, "And may the Lord have mercy on your soul," Dunn said quietly, "He will, my lord."

Previous to sentence being passed upon O'Sullivan, Dunn squeezed his companion's hand, and shook it warmly for a few seconds.

O'Sullivan said—"You may kill my body, but my spirit you will never kill."

SEIZED MOTOR CARS.

CLAIMS DISMISSED.

At the Green street Courthouse yesterday before the Recorder, there was a long list of applications for compensation for criminal injuries.

In the case of the Alliance Gas Co., applicants: Dublin County Council, Dalkey U.D.C., Kingstown U.D.C., and Killiney U.D.C., respondents.

Mr. J. J. Hearne (instructed by Messrs. Dillon and T. Fitzgerald) for the applicants, said that the application was for £200 for the loss of a motor car on the 28th April, 1922. The motor car was the property of the Alliance and Dublin Consumers' Gas Co., and on the date in question was taken away from Proby Lodge, Ballyboy, the residence of Mr. Grey, the Secretary of the Company.

Mr. Grey gave evidence, and stated that two armed men came to his house and stated that they required the motor car. He asked by what authority the men were demanding the car and they said that they were members of the "Republican Army." He said, surely, you have some evidence of that ?" and the men produced revolvers and said that they were all the evidence they had. They took away the car, and the witness communicated with the Irish Army, and they were looking for the car and, in fact, were going to bring it back when their suspicions were aroused by the negotiations that were going on between Mr. de Valera. The witness wrote to Mr. Rory O'Connor at the Four Courts, and received a reply stating that it had been put into the hands of the police.

The Recorder held that the case was not sustainable in law and should be dismissed on the merits, but he declined to allow costs against the applicant.

In another case, in which Messrs. Eason and Sons, Dublin, applied for £280 compensation for the loss of a Ford motor delivery van, which had been carried off under similar circumstances, his lordship said that this case also failed, and dismissed the claim.

CRIME IN TYRONE.

FOURTEEN CASES OF MURDER.

Addressing the Grand Jury, of which Colonel Blackwood Archdale was foreman, at Tyrone Assizes yesterday, Lord Justice Moore said that he was sorry on his first visit to the county as a judge that the state of affairs was not better. Since the last Assizes, 168 cases had been reported as against 207 for the corresponding period, an increase of 28 cases, and he was sorry to say that no less than 24 of them were murders. It was a shocking thing that people nowadays had, owing to causes that they need not go into, become so reckless and regardless of the sanctity of human life that in a civilised country like that no less than 14 murders had been committed. Some of these crimes were due to what were known as reprisals, but they were quite as unlawful and as cowardly as the original murders themselves. There was an increase of 65 cases of shooting at with intent to endanger life, but when he looked into the particulars it was found that these were generally due to guerilla warfare—border fighting and firing at police patrols.

Once it was recognised that the law would be enforced and maintained by a Government responsible to the people, it was felt that this class of offence would die down. Once the criminal found that crime did not pay, crime would be abandoned. Already it had largely ceased, and there were signs that the country would soon be restored to a normal condition.

A great deal of trouble was due to Tyrone being the border county, and it might unfortunately be exposed to the inroads of these people who would not allow their fellow-citizens to live in peace under a Government which an Act of the Imperial Parliament had established over that and other Northern counties. There were now signs which would encourage all to hope that peace would be restored.

The Grand Jury passed a resolution protesting against the proposed disbandment of the Special Constabulary and the Royal Inniskilling Fusiliers.

REFUGEES' CASE.

MEASURES OF RELIEF.

Sir W. Davison, in the Commons yesterday, asked the Colonial Secretary if he would state what was the total number of refugees from Southern Ireland who had applied for assistance to the British Government; what was the nature of the assistance given, and the total amount expended up to date; what was the total number and amount of the claims which had been lodged in respect of damage to person and property in Southern Ireland, how many of such claims had so far been dealt with, and what was the total amount of compensation which had been paid.

Mr. Churchill said that the total number of refugees from Ireland who had applied for assistance to Sir E. Hoare's Committee was 425, and assistance had been granted to 357 of these cases. In about 90 per cent. of the cases dealt with by the Committee the applicants came from Southern Ireland. The assistance given by the Committee consisted of grants of money or loans on the security of malicious injury decrees. The amount expended in grants was £1,956 and in loans £1,365.

He regretted that he could not give the figures asked for in the latter part of the question, but the number of decrees awarded to supporters of the Crown in respect of criminal injuries to the person prior to July 11 last, all of which would fall to be paid by the British Government, was approximate 1,750 since April 1st last. Final payments had been made in 261 of these cases, and interim payments in 726 cases, the amount of money so expended being £2,300,000.

Sir W. Davison asked were they to understand that temporary assistance would be given to those people who had obtained decrees and were in urgent need of assistance, even though the whole payment might not be immediately available.

Mr. Churchill—Yes.

NORTHERN IRELAND.

Captain Craig—Are we to understand that a certain number of people from Northern Ireland have applied for assistance to this Committee? The right hon. gentleman told us that 90 per cent. of these people come from Southern Ireland. Are we to understand that 10 per cent. of the number mentioned come from Nothern Ireland?

Mr. Churchill—Yes, I think so.

Captain Craig—May I ask what class of oppression they complain of, and on what ground they applied for assistance from this fund?

Mr. Churchill said that he should have to ask the Chairman of the Committee (Sir S. Hoare) about that.

Mr. Gideon Murray asked whether any further sum had been allotted to the Committee.

Mr. Churchill said that he did not think that the need had yet arisen. Undoubtedly, if more money were needed that would be a matter that the Treasury would have to take into consideration.

Mr. Murray—Is it not the case that only £10,000 has been allocated so far?

Mr. Churchill—It is also the fact that only £5,000 has been distributed so far.

Mr. G. Murray—Is that owing to the policy of the Government?

QUESTION OF TRANSPORT.

Mr. Gideon Murray asked the Colonial Secretary whether he was aware that there are many Irish refugees congregated in the Western ports of Ireland who are unable to obtain transport to Great Britain owing to lack of steamers and owing to the large steamers which call at those ports being prevented by Board of Trade regulations from carrying more than a very limited number of passengers; and whether the Government will take steps to provide transportation for these unfortunate people.

Mr. Churchill—His Majesty's Government is aware that a situation exists in certain of the Western ports of Ireland comparable with that described by my right hon. friend. The shipping companies operating upon the Western coast have, with the approval of the Board of Trade, instructed the captains of their vessels to accept passengers only willing to cross to this side in emergency without reference to the number allowed to be carried under the vessel's passenger certificate, provided that the number of passengers so carried is not, in the captain's opinion, in excess of what it is safe for the vessel to carry.

Replying to further questions, Mr. Churchill said that the Admiralty had given assistance when His Majesty's ships were in the neighbourhood, but he knew of no means of acquainting himself of the situation which prevailed in Ireland at the present time in the area occupied by the Republicans.

Mr. Gideon Murray asked leave to move the adjournment of the House to call attention to the failure of the Government to take adequate steps for the transportation of Irish refugees from the Western ports of Ireland, and the insufficient means taken by the Government for dealing with cases of relief.

The Speaker replied that the motion failed on the ground of indefiniteness.

WIGS AND GOWNS.

IRISH BAR AND LONG VACATION.

A meeting of the Bar Council was held yesterday at the King's Inns, Dublin. The proceedings were private, but it is understood that one of the principal subjects under consideration was the probability that the Irish Government would place Dublin Castle at the disposal of the Bench and Bar, as the centre and habitat of the administration of the law in Southern Ireland.

The inconvenience of the King's Inns from all points of view was acknowledged, and it was said that they were tolerable only as a temporary expedient.

It was suggested that the members of the Bar should resume the wearing of their wigs and gowns at the opening of the Michaelmas Term. The practice had been abandoned since the Four Courts were seized. It was also suggested that the Long Vacation might be shortened considerably.

A general meeting of the members of the Bar will be held on Tuesday next.

WRECKING A NEWSPAPER.

£45,000 AWARDED.

A claim for £150,000 by the Freeman's Journal (1919), Ltd., was heard at Green street Courthouse yesterday by the Recorder, arising out of the destruction, on the night of March 29th-30th last, of machinery, plant, paper, furniture, and premises, at 6-8 Townsend street, Dublin. The claim was based on "malicious and wanton destruction."

Mr. T. M. Healy, K.C., and Mr. H. J. Moloney (instructed by Messrs. Miley and Miley) appeared for claimants; and Mr. T. M. Sullivan, K.C., and Mr. P. O'C. White (instructed by Mr. Rice, Law Agent) for Dublin Corporation.

COUNSEL'S STATEMENT.

Mr. Healy, K.C., opening claimants' case, said that if ever there was a case in which the Corporation should be made to pay it was this one, because the gentleman who was responsible for it was an engineer employed by the Corporation.

The Recorder—Whom do you refer to?

Mr. Healy—I refer to Mr. R. O'Connor, who is an engineer in the Corporation, who engineered this disaster to the Freeman's Journal, and who is at present on leave at full salary.

Proceeding to outline the circumstances, counsel said that at about midnight on the night in question four or five of the principal streets around the Freeman's Journal office were blocked by armed men—at least 200 took part. A descent was then made on the offices in Crossley tenders with sledge hammers stolen from the Great Southern and Western Railway works at Inchicore. It was believed that they were conducted over the office by an expert in machinery and newspaper plant, who had at one time been on the staff of the Freeman's Journal. Those who were in the offices were first handed a document headed "Oglaigh na hEireann, General Headquarters, Dublin".

The Recorder—What is the meaning of that?

Mr. Healy—It means Volunteers. It was dated 29th March, 1922, and addressed to the proprietors of the Freeman's Journal, 'and read—

"You are hereby notified that it has been deemed necessary to suspend publication of your journal in view of statements made therein, calculated to cause disaffection and indiscipline in the ranks of the Irish Republican Army. By order of the Army Executive."

"The only thing that the Freeman published," said Mr. Healy, "to give offence to this body was published by it at the instance of the Provisional Government, the Government established by law, by Statute of the Imperial Parliament, and by the selection of the Irish electors themselves. There has been a conception of these so-called army officers in the Mansion House of the Lord Mayor of Dublin on Sunday. On the Monday night all the Dublin newspapers were dealt with on account of their proceedings, which was supplied from the military authorities properly established at Beggars' Bush. The Independent and Irish Times would not publish it, but the Freeman published it. This was the thing that was published which, it was alleged, was calculated to cause disaffection and indiscipline in the ranks."

Describing what took place, Mr. Healy said that the whole of the staff, close on 200, were huddled together in one little room, a sort of "Black Hole of Calcutta," and then each room was visited in turn with sledge hammers, and marvels of science which gave the Irish race their daily newspapers were reduced almost to powder. Fourteen linotype machines, for which £13,395 was paid, were destroyed. It had cost £17,942 to replace them. The men then turned with their sledges on the three Hoe presses and reduced them to ruin. They smashed all the electrical installation. Then they attacked the stereotyping plant, including machines which were most valuable, for the stereo metal and lino metal were rendered useless. They turned on the Creed-Bille long distance telegraphic installation, and they sprinkled the paper stock with petrol, and set fire to the place. They destroyed a portrait of Mr. Michael Collins and Mr. Griffith which were on the wall. (Laughter.) They sought to prevent messages reaching the Fire Brigade. All this ruin was done because of the publication in the Freeman's Journal of a lawful document from the Government of the country. Subsequently Mr. Rory O'Connor seized the Four Courts, with the result that now records, the most precious that any country could have of, were all ruined at the hands of an official of the Dublin Corporation.

The Recorder said that although the applicants were entitled to be fully, fairly, and justly compensated, they were not entitled to make any profit on the amount awarded to them.

Mr. Healy, K.C.—We seek no profit.

THE EVIDENCE.

Mr. Ruddock, a member of a firm of auctioneers and valuers in Fleet street, London, gave evidence as to an expert knowledge of newspaper properties, and said that in the case of a similar claim by the Independent newspapers his figures had been accepted as to the damage. Witness went into details as to the damage to the machinery in the Freeman's Journal office.

Mr. Healy said that the witness's estimate of the damage to certain machinery was £13,000, and the actual cost to the company had been £15,138 6d. The total amount of his (Mr. Healy's) claim was £56,556, and his resulting loss was put by his expert as high as £25,000, but he (counsel) put it at £10,000.

Mr. T. M. Sullivan, K.C., cross-examined the witness at length as to the details of his estimate.

The Recorder said that there was an estimate before him of £45,000 worth of damage. He thought that in the case of the Independent claim Dr. Murphy took a very small sum. He did not believe for a moment that the Independent had not made some sacrifice in the amount of their award.

Mr. Healy, K.C.—They were only stopped for one day. We were stopped for a month, while they were able to continue for the whole time. They had an expert smashing their machinery—a two hatchet Corporation official. (Laughter.)

Mr. Sullivan, K.C., made a remark which was inaudible to the Press.

Mr. Healy—I want to sink it into the public mind that is the way to put down blackguardism.

Mr. J. J. O'Neill, a director of the Manchester Guardian, was called by Mr. Healy, and gave evidence as to the probable loss in the English advertising revenue of the Freeman in consequence of the stoppage of publication. In consequence of the stoppage for four weeks the Freeman had been knocked off the advertising list of many leading firms. The paper, he supposed for so long a period, would probably entail to the Freeman a loss of revenue for one or two years.

The case for the applicants having closed,

COUNSEL AND MR. O'CONNOR.

Mr. Sullivan, K.C., spoke of Mr. Healy's references to Mr. Rory O'Connor as an official of the Corporation, and said that Mr. O'Connor had not got one penny of pay from the Dublin Corporation since December, 1920, and the charge that had been made never should have been made.

Mr. Healy asked had Mr. O'Connor been dismissed by the Corporation.

The Recorder—Why did they give him six months' leave?

Mr. Sullivan—I cannot tell. It is all very well to be wise after the event—no one knew how these things were going to develop.

Expert evidence was called and estimated the damage on behalf of the Corporation.

Mr. Edwin Evans, an assessor, stated that the amount allowed for salvage was totally insufficient, and that some of the damaged machinery was again in working order.

Mr. Healy cross-examined at length as to witness's knowledge of newspaper equipment. Witness said that he would fully equip a daily newspaper office for from £40,000 to £50,000. If the case had been settled out of Court he would have advised his clients to pay the Freeman's Journal £20,000.

THE DECISION.

The Recorder, in giving his decision, said that the claim was for a very large amount. Not only were the applicants entitled to compensation, but he thought it was a case in which the public should be held responsible. It was a case of a very grave and shocking outrage, not merely upon property, but upon the right to speak and the right of a newspaper to publish the speech. He would not deal with the matter in any niggardly spirit. Much of the machinery that had been destroyed would have to be replaced by new machinery. In respect of machinery he would allow a sum of £35,000. With respect to the building itself he would allow £2,100, and for damage to electrical plant £550. The loss of profit to the company had been, in his opinion, substantial, and for the three weeks he was satisfied there was a loss of £5,000, and he would allow it. For the estimated loss in advertising revenue a sum of £2,500 was allowed. In making a total award of £45,150 his lordship said that he thought it a most melancholy thing that the ratepayers should be made responsible for such a large amount by the outrage.

CANAL DRAINED.

The Grand Canal from Dublin, having its terminus at Ballinasloe, has been deliberately drained at Kylemore Locks, about six miles from the town. As a result, this system of communication has been rendered useless until repairs have been executed.

SOLDIERS IN THE MAKING.

PRIZE DAY AT R.H.M. SCHOOL.

GENERAL MACREADY AND ITS FUTURE.

Yesterday was the 157th anniversary of the Royal Hibernian Military School. It was also the occasion of the 64th yearly distribution of the Crimean Banquet Fund prizes and various athletic trophies.

There was a large assembly in the dining hall when General the Right Hon. Sir C. F. N. Macready, G.C.M.G., K.C.B., Commanding-in-Chief, Ireland, and Vice-President of the school, entered with Colonel H. M. Bent, G.M.G., C.B.E., Commandant, and took the chair. General Macready was loudly cheered by the boys.

The boys sang a chorus of welcome at the opening of the proceedings, the choir being conducted by Mr. H. F. A. Sibbald, the singing master.

ANNUAL REPORT.

Colonel Bent read the annual report of the school, generally, in its various branches. He stated that very good progress had been made in all classes, particularly in reading and composition. The state of backwardness in many of the older boys was due to their being so old on admission to the school. A distinct and gratifying advance had been made in all classes in the secondary school, and some of the more advanced pupils would be capable of taking the London matriculation examination in two years' time.

In connection with the Crimean Banquet Fund examination, there were 245 candidates, or about 60 per cent. of the whole school. Compared with last year, this was a drop in numbers of fifty, owing to the fact that Standard IV., on account of having so many young boys, did not compete this year. Fourteen boys passed with distinction, obtaining 75 per cent. or more of the total marks. One of them—H. P. Johnston—actually scored 89 per cent., and thus created a record. At an examination for boy mechanics, Royal Air Force, held in December last, the five candidates who were presented were successful. Of 500 candidates who competed at this examination, one of the boys, C. D. Connerton, took 3rd place.

At the Feis Ceoil competitions in May last their boys, for the third successive year, carried off the first prize for children's choirs, gaining special commendation from the adjudicators. All these successes were due in great measure to the ability, zeal, and devotion of the masters and mistresses, whose faithful services were to be specially commended.

The Superintendent of Physical Training, Irish Command, reported, after his inspection on the 7th and 8th June, that the standard of the boys was high, and their vitality would be an object lesson in any army. The standard of swimming was very good, 200 boys over ten, 296 were swimmers, and the remainder were under instruction.

The report proved favourably as to the efficiency of the band and drums. At the Feis Ceoil competitions the band took second place to an adult band. The Boy Scouts and Cubs could look back on a very successful season. They numbered 56. Since last year they their Boy Scouts had carried off the Gordon Wood Cup, the trophy given for the swimming championship of all Boy Scout troops in the County of Dublin. The general health of the boys had been excellent. The conduct of the boys had been very good, and at games they had more than held their own with outside teams at football, cricket, and hockey.

IMMINENT CHANGE.

Before concluding, Colonel Bent said that he must refer to the future of that school. It was, of course, an open secret that a drastic reduction was imminent, and on that account there had been much anxiety amongst them.

"I can only say," he proceeded, "that up to the present no definite orders have been received, but we are prepared for the worst. If, and when, this institution closes, it will be a sad day for us all. For over 150 years this school has been in existence, and during that time many thousands of boys have been prepared to take their part in the world under assist in the task of safeguarding and increasing our great and glorious Empire." (Loud applause.) We have very cherished traditions in this school, of which we are justly proud, and we do not object to think that these will not be handed on to future generations within the walls. Nevertheless ,the right spirit will live in you boys, in your children, and your children's children for generations, and you can always hand down with safety to them the good old school motto, 'Fear God. Honour the King.' (Loud applause.) Most of you will, I hope, go to other military schools to finish your education, and I am sure that you will be a credit to the dear old 'Hib,' affectionately call it, and do nothing to bring discredit on its memory." (Applause.)

The prizes were then distributed by General Macready. His own special prize to the best boy of the year was won by Harry P. Johnston.

GENERAL MACREADY.

At the conclusion of the prize distribution General Macready said that he had come for the year was one of which any school might be proud. From his

DUBLIN.

BUOYANT FUNDS. NATIONAL BANK RESERVE. LOCAL SECURITIES STAGNANT AND DULL. GUINNESS SAND MARCONIS WEAK. COTTONS AND TOBACCOS BETTER, WITH STRONG CLOSING.

Dealing in local securities in the Dublin Stock Exchange shrank to almost vanishing point on Change, but operations in the Funds were conducted with animation at fresh substantial gains in prices. National Bank shares were firm at recent enhanced levels. The dividend shows no change at rate of 12 per cent. per annum, but the £180,000 standing to credit of investment depreciation is "not now necessary, and, together with £20,000 from earnings, is now transferred to Rest, or the reserve fund, which will stand at the grand total of £1,000,000. The amount set aside in recent half years has been £70,000 for contingencies and taxes. Breweries and Distilleries were the turn easier. Marconi Ord. shares were pressed back steadily on unfavourable dividend estimates for 1921. Among Rails, Great Southern and Western Guaranteed fell sharply, but the Debs. rallied somewhat. "Wicklow" Ord. stock was lower. Dunlop Rubber Ord. were weaker, but Parent Tyre issues closed steady to firm. Alliance Gas were bid for at an advance. Johnston Debs. were higher. Cottons were a very firm market, but Coats, after initial firmness, were ultimately in a fluctuating mood, with the "B" Pref. again lower. Tobaccos closed particularly strong, especially Imperials, which were bid up to 68s.

Marked strength was still shown for the Funds. Consols rose ¼ to 59¾, War Loan 5 per cent. ¼ to 100⅝, ditto 5½ Conversion 3½ per cent ¼ to 77⅛, Guaranteed Land 2½ per cent. 1 to 61, Irish Land 3 per cent. ½ to 64⅛, and India 3½ per cent. 1¼ to 68¼. Irish Land 22 per cent. repeated 59½, and Dublin Corporation 3½ per cent 69.

In Banks, a few Nationals changed hands again at 18. Others were all idle.

In Breweries, etc., Dublin Distillers Ord. fell 6d. to 37s., and Guinness Ord. ½ to 45¾-45½, while the Pref. repeated 11¾.

Marconi Ord. shares fell 2s. 6d. to 43s. 6d., after dealing at 44s. 6d., 44s. 3d., 44s.

Home Rails were mostly flat and nominal. Dublin and South-Eastern Ord. fell ½ to 20¾, and Great Southern Guaranteed 2½ to 65½, while the Debs. rallied ½ to 75. Midland Great Western 4 per cent. Debs. gave way ½ to 64.

Anglo-Argentine Tram 5 per cent. Debs. realised 81½.

Dunlop Rubber Ord. were dull, and fell back to 8s. 7¼d., 8s. 6d. Parent Tyre Ord. repeated 15s. 10½d., the Pref. closed at 1.5s. 9d., 14s., and the Def. at 22s. 6d., 25s., unofficially. In Gas shares, Alliance and Dublin Consumers rose ½ to 6¾, and the Debs. repeated 65; while in Bakery shares, Johnston Debs. rose ½ to 6 for an odd lot.

Drapery shares were quite neglected.

As regards Manufacturing shares, British-American Tobacco rose 10½d. to 79s. 4½d., 80s., and Imperials 1s. 3d. to 64s., 64s. 9d., 64s. 10½d., 65s. Coats opened 3d. dearer at 61s. 9d., but later ceased to 61s. 6d., and closed at 61s. 9d.; while the "B" 2nd Pref. fell 9d. to 24s. Cotton Ord. were bid up 1s. further to 46s.

Trading, etc., shares were idle.

Mexican Eagle Oil improved to 6¼s. 4½d., while the 7 per cent. 1st Pref. realised 20s. 4½d. Shells were a few pence harder at 91s. 3d.

CHEERFUL STOCKS.

(FROM OUR FINANCIAL CORRESPONDENT AND THE "FINANCIAL NEWS" OF TO-DAY.)

Despite a continued restriction of business, the tone yesterday was more cheerful. The Gilt-edged market was firm, and practically all stocks advanced to the extent of ½ in most instances on a general demand. Colonial issues remained steady. In the Home Railway market the special features were the continuous strength of "Berwicks," which advanced to 122, and the improvement in Great Northerns. The "heavies" were steady, but featureless, almost the only movement of interest being the recovery by North-Westerns of the slight fall of ½ on the previous day. Features in the foreign section were the strength of Turkish Unified and Peru Prefs. the latter being due to rumours that the terms for a Peruvian loan had been arranged. The 1920 Loan rose in sympathy to 57. South and Central American Rails were on the dull side, although an exception was provided by Antofagastas and Havanas, which rose rather sharply, and closed very firm.

LONDON STOCKS IMPROVE.

GOOD INVESTMENT DEMAND.

A good tone prevailed on the Stock Exchange yesterday, and it continued throughout the session. The demand was chiefly on gilt-edged securities and in Home Railways, but the improvement in these two departments encouraged great activity elsewhere. In British Funds, Consols rose ¼ to 59, and the 5 per cent. War Loan ¼ to 100⅛; the Conversion Loan ¼ to 77⅛, India 5½ per cent. rose ¼ to 98¾.

FOREIGN GOVERNMENT SECURITIES were quiet, and generally unchanged. Peruvian Corporation Preference rose 1½ to 25, while Argentine 1907 fell ½ to 83½. French Loans and German Threes were unchanged.

HOME RAILS were maintained, and some good advances took place on the day. Great Northern Preference rose 3 to 69, and the Deferred 1 to 41½. North-Eastern Cons. rose 1½ to 122. Caledonian Deferred Ordinary rose ½ to 12¾. Brighton A at 61, London and North-Western at 105, and Midland Deferred at 68¾, each rose ½.

In COLONIAL AND FOREIGN RAILWAYS, "Canpacs" rose 1 to 158. Grand Trunks were unaltered. Argentines were dull and lower. B.A.G.S. at 77½, Westerns at 72½, Centrals at 67¾, each fell ¼, while Pacifics fell ½ to 150½. Entre Rios Ordinary fell ½ to 19. Antofagasta Ordinary at 69 was 1½ higher, while United of the Havana improved 1 to 67, and Leopoldinas ½ to 29½.

OIL SHARES STEADY.

STRONG BUYING OF LOBITOS.

Leading issues, as a rule, had an easier tendency for the greater part of the day, but shortly before the close a quiet demand arose, mainly as a result of New York advices, and prices finished steady. Elsewhere an irregular tendency prevailed. Lobitos once more provided an outstanding feature of strength, further good buying of the shares, which is believed to have for its object the securing of control, resulting in an advance, a new high record being established, business being conducted as high as 5½. Another strong spot was provided by Apex Trin., which spurted sharply, the advance resulting mainly from option buying. Other Trin. descriptions remained on the dull side. Roumanians had an easier tendency. The production of the Rou. Cons. for the past month is announced at 1,814 tons, which compares with 1,901 tons in May; while the number of feet drilled was 1,000, as against 1,102 in May. The output of the Anglo-Egyptian Oilfields further declined during the past week, the total for the period being 1,829 tons, as compared with 2,082 tons for the preceding seven days. Russian descriptions displayed a hardening tendency at the end, but other speculative favourites generally closed easier. Among the leaders, Royal Dutch opened easier at 38½ and further weakened to 36, but in the afternoon, on the receipt of New York advices, a rally occurred to 36¾, which left them unchanged on the day. Shells, which at one time were no better than 4½, hardened at the end of the overnight level of 4¾, and the two Pref. issues also left off without alteration. Mexican Eagles kept steady for the greater part of the day, but were finally ½ down at 5⅞. The 8 p.c. Prefs. declined ½ to 24½, but the 7 p.c. Prefs. finished steady at 20s. 4½d. Burmahs were active at 5¾, and the 8 p.c. Prefs. at 26s. Anglo-Persian Ord. were maintained at 5, but the 8 p.c. and 9 p.c. Prefs. weakened to 25s. 9d. and 27s. 1½d. respectively. Closing prices:—

MINING REPORT.

Esperanza, Ltd.—Developments for the week ended 13th July—Descubridora vein, 7th level, north drift, advanced 35 feet; average width of vein 16 inches; assaying 1.34 ozs. of gold, 2 ozs. silver. Raise No. 11—Advanced 35 feet; average width of vein 36 inches, assaying 0.98 ozs. gold, 3 ozs. silver.

New Chuquitambo Gold Mines, Ltd.—A cable received from the company's engineer in Peru states that the mill is now in working order again, has made profit for June, and will show an increase for July. The prospects of the new deep level tunnel are decidedly encouraging. Have driven in for a distance of 250 feet. Have struck ore assaying 8 grammes.

Snow has fallen in the Swiss Alps down to a level of 5,000 feet above the sea.

LONDON MINING MARKET FIRM.

Mines gave a good account of themselves, and there was a steady demand for several of the leading Kaffirs and certain other specialities. Cape advices were favourable, and Paris was inclined to lend a hand, so that such shares as Central Mining, Rand Mines, the principal Far Easterns, Nourse Mines, Consolidated Main Reef, and Geldenhuis Deep were appreciably harder, while the shrinkages on balance were few and unimportant. One of the features of the day's business was the continued activity of Chartered. These shares were bought in large numbers to the accompaniment of all sorts of rumours. These were, no doubt, the outcome of the announcement of the forthcoming interest, report, and meeting. The guesses as to the terms upon which the company's assets will probably be taken over varied very considerably. There were vague rumours in circulation purporting to account for the further jump in the shares, but, while real purchases were on the increase, it is probable that a good deal of the buying was on behalf of the takers of option money, who had hitherto refrained from covering themselves. The price of an option, by the way, which was about 1s. a week ago, rose to 1s. 6d. or 1s. 9d., and this on the top of a 2s. rise in the quotation for the shares. Other Rhodesians were sympathetically affected, and gains were fairly general. The Chicago-Gaika directors, in their annual report, recommend a 5 per cent. maiden dividend on the reduced capital. Among Diamonds, the De Beers issues were again harder on Paris advices. A sharp rise of 30s. to £159 3s. 9d. per ton in the metal had little influence on the Tin share market, which remained very idle. The Rayfield-Nigeria, announcing the payment of interest and redemption instalment in respect of the Debs., states that the annual accounts have been delayed, as a scheme for the reduction of the capital, as contemplated in 1917, is being considered by counsel, and it is hoped that the meeting will take place in August. West Africans were dullish, and in the Australian section the only noticeable movement was a further rise in Broken Hill, South, on the dividend announcement. Of the Coppers, Tintos were a strong spot on the gradual improvement in, and the brighter outlook for, the metal, and also on French advices. Russo-Asiatic rallied smartly, but Siberian Properties were unaffected by the issue of the report and accounts. Elsewhere, some of the Indians, the Walkis, and Burmah Corporation were in request, but British Platinum receded. Closing prices:—
